

Yields, Content, Process and Context (YCPC) analysis

for Learning Intentions and Pathways Design (LIPD)

Self-Review.

The sections below are not water tight. That is, each question could be in one section or another. They do reflect what we think it is important to consider when evaluating the value of a LIPD.

Wherever you see a quality assesment (6 buttons right to left) the extreme buttons indicate the width of the quality choices. Use the in-between buttons to refine your assessment.

Use the box below to add some words about the shapes and patterns you see in your LIPD and the strongest evidence for unlearning (to create paragraphs in the box, you must use a Carriage Return: Cmd/Opt/return (Mac) or Alt/Enter (PC)) *

I see a broad pattern starting from "self-focus" moving to "collective-focus". The shape I see coming into form is that of my future, a skilled and experienced professional working in my field in my niche. I see that ecological and social stewardship is the that niche. I believe the various forms of reflection and even meta-reflection (reflection of reflection) woven throughout my LIPD are the best evidence of my unlearnings.

Are there other yields and benefits that you think show up in the LIPD?

Don't feel obliged to add anything here if it is not useful for you to do so (to create paragraphs in the box, you must use a Carriage Return: Cmd/Opt/return (Mac) or Alt/Enter (PC))

Many yields! It is my action-learning multi-tool. I hope to keep this a living & dynamic document that I add to and really use as my main-frame reference. So the yields are really only limit to my use of it unlimited scope.

You are encouraged to be free using design tools & methods - describe in the box below any choices you used that are not reflected in the question above (to create paragraphs in the box, you must use a Carriage Return: Cmd/Opt/return (Mac) or Alt/Enter (PC))

I used a tool of questions from <http://www.three-levels-of-leadership.com/tool-downloads> to assess my values and to create my vision statement. I found it useful. I used and am using SWOC - Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Challenges after Mark Krawczyk introduced me to it.

A final space for you to add any additional analysis of this LIPD that is not covered in the questions above & including your assessment of any essentials that are missing

(to create paragraphs in the box, you must use a Carriage Return: Cmd/Opt/return (Mac) or Alt/Enter (PC))

I noticed an overall confusion of OP timelines (basic time frame) among most associates. I think this could be covered better in the pathways design module in the beginning of the orientation. I think some of this confusion would be resolved by including a piece on the OP bus and a description of the "model year" meaning, no pauses and evenly spaced OP completion. Even if the structure is modular and open we need some basis to modulate from. I am still looking how to sync my calendar for resilient documentation, I think this is an essential document for the LIPD and I haven't heard any suggestions. I can't get my phone to sync to google calendar...
